DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC §§ 102, 103

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-4, 6-8, 33 and 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Wigton et al. (US 6,145,243).

Wigton et al. (hereafter Wigton) discloses the claimed invention comprising a propane gas burner releasing hot carbon dioxide gas and moisture (Wigton, col.4, lns.38-40) through a vertically extending exhaust tube 44 having an outlet 48 that is open to the atmosphere.

Wigton's device further comprises an insect trap assembly comprising a insect trap/housing 34, communicated to inlet 36 operable to draw insects into the housing via vacuum generator 38.

The insect assembly, comprising parts 34, and 36, is laterally offset from and entirely exterior from exhaust tube 44.

Regarding claim 3, 33 and 35 the insect trap assembly is supported from and exterior of exhaust tube 44 via connection 46.

Art Unit: 3644

Regarding claim 7, a ground-engaging stand 12, 20, supports the entire system.

Regarding claim 8, the sidewall of housing 36, and connector 46 are considered to be heating panels.

3. Further, if one were to argue that Wigton's insect trap assembly and the exhaust tube are not "positioned offset from and entirely exteriorly of one another," such would only involve mere rearrangement of parts, and would not alter the scope or spirit of Wigton's inventive concept. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to offset Wigton's intake tube 30 from carbon exhaust tube 44, since it has been held that rearranging of parts of an invention involves only routine skill in the art. In re Japikse, 86 USPQ 70.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. The indicated allowability of claim 33 is withdrawn, as the Wigton reference has been reexamined, and is considered to be readable on said claim, as described in the above rejection.

5. Claim 34 allowed.

6. Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 29 July 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant contends that the amendment to claim one, wherein the word "entirely" was added, defines the claim over the prior art of Wigton. The examiner respectfully disagrees, and points out that claim 1 recites the insect trap comprising a housing and inlet. As discussed above, Wigton's housing 34 and inlet 36 are readable on the "insect trap assembly," and said structures are offset from and entirely exterior to the exhaust tube 44.

Art Unit: 3644

Further, the allowability of claim 33 has been withdrawn because upon reexamination of the aforementioned reference, it is clear that the housing 34 and inlet 36 of the insect trap assembly are in fact mounted to and exterior of the exhaust tube 44 at connection 46.

In conclusion, for the above reasons the examiner maintains the rejection of the respective claims.
